

Invertigo, Blame It On The Stars

we met without asking why you thought i was someone else walking by but i knew it was you we talked right into the night about what was missing from in our life then i knew i couldn't choose

CHORUS

just like a world went off between us you couldn't stop Mars crashing into venus 'cause when the feeling is mutual and the need is so physical then we won't blame it on our hearts we'll just blame it on the stars we don't care what they think at all they can't see inside of these lover's walls they don't know, they'll never know
