

Isak Danielson, Say That Everything Will Be Alright

How are you now,
I got a drink at the bar where we used to go
It made me think of you
When we would talk and just talk till the sky turned blue

Say that everything will be alright,
I know I'll have to give,
all the things that I never did If only you could understand
just take hold of my hand
I will never let go

It might be way too late
Your goodbye still burns like yesterday
Have you found someone?
Who makes you feel it was right there all along

Say that everything will be alright,
I know I'll have to give,
all the things that I never did
If only you could understand
just take hold of my hand
I will never let go

How are you now
Sometimes I wonder if you still think of me Hold me for a while and say that everything will be alright
