Ivoryline, Taking Every Chance You Know How

You're one to talk when you know that
this isn't going right, this is going left.
You're one to lie when you know
that you're coming exposed, girl.
You're one to talk when you know that
this isn't going right, this is going left.
You're one to lie when you know
that you're coming exposed, girl.

Your walls are coming swiftly down.
Running around, running around this town
taking every chance you know how.
Screaming out, screaming loud
that you're not gonna die here.

You're one to kill when you think that your life is on the line
you might die tonight.
You're one to sing when you think that somebody's listening.
You're one to talk when you know that this isn't going right. This is all wrong.
You're one to lie when you know
that you're coming exposed, Girl.

You're not gonna die here baby.
Your mind is mine now baby.
Your mind is mine now baby.

Running around, running around this town
taking every chance you now.
taking every chance you know how
I'm sure you do