

Iza Miko, I can't ignore

Through my heart you've broken into my womb
Slowly dusting off the feelings for you
My wounds not yet healed from that letter of yours
Open up at the footsteps of your doors
I can't ignore
I can't withdraw
I'm far too deep
To let you go
Blinding me with your pale, pale skin
Just so I never begin to look within
Yet again you've lured me into your world
Though the trees have whispered it's a double-double -edge sword.
I can't ignore
I can't withdraw
I'm far too deep
To let you go
Clouded my brain with your written words
I fell for your humming lies against all the odds
You can't force me into your picture frame
Usher up my blood into your family lane
I can't ignore
I can't withdraw
I'm far too deep
To let you go