

Jack Foster III, Every Time You Smile

Everytime you smile
the world becomes a brighter place like laughter on a childs face
everytime you smile

theres a thousand different visions in my head of the things wed do if we were two instead

Everytime you smile
my worries dont seem so intense the world starts making better sense
everytime you smile

theres a thousand different visions in my head and I cant stop wishing you were in my bed you make blue a lighter shaded hue and your smile almost makes me smile too

Everytime you smile
the feelings almost come aloud the silver lining shrinks the cloud
everytime you smile

theres a thousand different visions in my head
of the things wed do if we were two instead

and you almost makes me come out of my shell then I remember you belong to someone else