

Jack Greene, What's The Use

What's the use to try and start all over we'd be better off to let it die
We had our chance put shows to hurt each other
It's over now let's leave it at goodbye
What's the use for a while we might pretend
But the time would come our past would break us up again
Let's forget we ever knew each other let time erase all those memories
Let's pretend that you and I are strangers
What's the use it's gone for you and me
What's the use it's gone for you and me
