Jack Greene, You Turned The Lights On

You turned the lights on all over my world
My present was as dark as my future my future was no brigter than my past
My heart had known love and someone to dream of
But my heart had known love that didn't last
But when you kissed me and whispered I'll always be your girl
You turned the lights on all over my world
[steel]
With each step my shadow grew longer till slowly it melted away
With no one to love me no one to leave me lost in love I couldn't find my way
But when you kissed me...
You turned the lights on all over my world
