

Jack Ingram, Me And You

I was feeling confused like a man with no name
When I wandered upon your step
You took me away to a place far from sight
Without leaving a step from your room

Nowhere can compare
To the places we've traveled
No dreams can escape us when we're alone
Me and you

When I wake up at night with dreams of confusion and fright
And I look for a place where I can hide
In our love where we're safe from ourselves and our lives
We can sleep until our dreams come true
