

Jack Ingram, What Makes You Say

J. Ingram/B. Robison

What makes you say the things you say
What did I do so wrong today
Where did you learn how to cut me so deep
When did I let you get so far away from me

And I know that we stood there and promised each other forever
God knows we've tried for so long now and nothing gets better
Loving you is all that I have ever known
But the truth hits and I know we'd be better off alone

And I know that we stood there and promised each other forever
God knows we've tried for too long now and nothing gets better
Stand here in the silence that remains
Loving you still does not change a thing