Jack Off Jill, Everything's Brown

Hello, I'm here to invite you To things you cannot feel And if you push me to far You might believe I'm real Teeth scrape beneath the sweater To when you hate and steal Or do you think it better To obsess and not reveal

I know you secret It scrapes you way down Everything was clean Now everything's brown Don't try to hide it when you cannot feel What you are is something that i won't reveal

Hello, I'm here to invite you To things you cannot feel And if you fall apart You'll pretend I'm not real You can't erase what you are So don't even try And how can I be truthful When everything I am is a lie

I know your secret It scrapes you way down Everything came clean Now everything's brown Don't try to hide it When you dig to feel When it falls apart I hope I won't reveal

Hello remember Hello remember Hello remember Hello I'm real real real When you think I'm not real