

Jack Radics, No Matter

Lost my job, wrecked my car, I've been robbed so I won't get far,
It don't matter, don't matter,
The bank took the house, now the neighbor start to shout,
It don't matter, don't matter.

It don't matter cause life has never been better. No not ever, life has never been better,
It don't matter cause life has never been better. No not ever, life has never been better.

No more cage, no more rage cause I've turned me a brand new page,
Much better (don't matter),
And I'm free to be me and as far as I can see,
Much better (don't matter).

It don't matter cause life has never been better. No not ever, life has never been better,
It don't matter cause life has never been better. No not ever, life has never been better.

No more cage, no more rage cause I've turned me a brand new page, don't matter,
Now I'm free to be me and as far as I can see, don't matter,
And they say it's a shame I'm no longer in that game, don't matter,
Like an old picture frame there's no one to call my name really, don't matter,
Lost my job, wrecked my car, I've been robbed so I won't get far, don't matter,
The bank took the house and I want to scream and shout.

It don't matter cause life has never been better. No not ever, life has never been better,
It don't matter cause life has never been better. No not ever, life has never been better,
It don't matter cause life has never been better. No not ever, life has never been better,
It don't matter cause life has never been better. No not ever, life has never been better.
