

Jack Russell, Faith In You

frozen summer i see shadows from the past jaded lover how long those memories going to last?
'cause you're not the only one who's afraid to look into the sun right into the sun
'cause heartbroken lovers always read between the signs trust your faith this time because i'm letting you decide
i put my faith in you when you going to give your love again?
when you going to open up and let me in let me in?
you're always running always looking back baby turn around and put your pain in the past and maybe then when you're facing me you'll see that i'm the one who'll always be your man always be your man 'cause heartbroken lovers always looking for a line trust your faith this time because i'm letting you decide
i put my faith in you
when you going to let me off my knees?
when you going to let me stop begging please oh baby please?
when you finally going to come around?
when you going to realise i'll never let you down down?
i put my faith in you
i put my faith in you
i put my faith in you
i put my faith in you
