

Jack Russell, Shelter Me

mother why do you change your nature? sister why are you so insecure? brother out turning green to grey father why do you turn away?
a prayer for the light at the end of the day suffering forgiven take it all away shelter me from the martyr's call save the children from the rise and fall mother sometimes your tears are wasted sister on those who claim to know the way brother a smile can hide a look of fear father but love can shine through any tear
a prayer for the light at the end of the day
shelter me guide me through the dark give me love the strength to carry on the strength to carry on i carry on
