

Jack's Mannequin, Made For Each Other Part 1: I

I swim across an ocean
It's my mattress in the basement
I'm sweatin' out excuses
That would make your stomach turn
The road we drove last night
Stretched from the desert to Las Vegas
We filled out cups and lit one up
The snow began to burn, oh

Oh, maybe we were made, we were made for each other
Is it possible for the world to look this way forever?

I talked so much
I'm sure I didn't realize I'd gone crazy
Didn't catch my bloody nose
Or that my heart tried to explode
I still live with my highschool friends
Some people never change at all
We're still the same impulsive drunks
We were when we were small
(Someone get this man to the hospital!)

Oh, maybe we were made, we were made for each other
Is it possible for the world to look this way forever?

A long way (a long way)
From a firework daze
But I still like to burn, burn, burn
I'm always (I'm always)
In the haze of a car crash
The orange airbag dust covers everything, everything

And maybe we were made, we were made for each other
Is it possible for the world to look this way forever?
