

Jackie Lomax, Just Don't Feel So Good

My dog ran off this morning
Another bill came through the door
I was just about yawning
When a man was sent to dig up all of my floor
Well I struck my toe so hard
I almost fell apart
And that water sure was cold enough to almost stop my heart
I know I ain't dying
But I just don't feel so good

My car ran out of petrol
My guitar case in my hand
I was striving to look natural
I'd arrange to meet some kinda rock'n'roll band
Well they hurt my ears so much
I almost quit that scene
And the notes that I was playing
Were left hanging in between
I know I ain't dying
But I just don't feel so good

I know I ain't dying
But I just don't feel so good

Like a package full of warnings
They came about a bill I hadn't paid
It seems they'd have to check my earnings
And replace all my diamonds with jade
Well they hit my brain so hard
I knew I could not walk
And the tongue that they were speaking
And I know I could not talk
I know I ain't dying
But I just don't feel so good

I just don't feel so good

I know I ain't dying, no
But I just don't feel so good

I just don't feel so good
