

Jackson Jackson, The Lonely Ooh

Why is the weather so strange this evening
Why was the weather so strange this afternoon
Something's gonna happen soon
What she said was true
Everything blows away someday

She pouts her lips and flicks her hair
Nobody notices but the moon
And only he was true
What was I to do
I don't know how to change the world

I saw the future out the window of a plane
In the darkness

The sun flashed and a shadow fish
Swam across her face
She shook and turned away
We were just too late
Everybody turns away one day

And though we shouted very loud
We never heard a sound
The lonely lonely ooh
What was I to do
I don't know how to save the world

But; I saw the future out the window of a plane
In the darkness

I woke up every morning
The sound of thunder far away
The turning of the day
What I say is true
I don't know how to change the world

Today I'm young
I'm just as young as I will never be again
I won't remember when
What I said was true
I don't know how to save the world

I saw the future out the window of a plane
In the darkness
