

Jackson United, You Can't Have It

the warning signs were all there the tingle in our end hair the loudest voice was your own the oil fields were burning the wheels of commerce turning the king sat smiling on his throne

but you're left out on your own
told to love the hate you're thrown we're throwing out the tyrants

is this the life that you want?
is this the world that you want?
is this the love that you take for granted?
is this the life that you take?
the world you want but you can't
you can't have it
is this the life that you want?
is this the world that you want?
is this the love that you take for granted?
is this the life that you take?
the world you want but you can't
you can't have it

marginalised and suppressed
"how could you criticise us?"
devoted to a higher cause not made of flag waving troop support and blind faith we'll lead the charge the coup d'etat

but you're left out on your own
told to love the hate you're thrown
we're throwing out the tyrants

is this the life that you want?
is this the world that you want?
is this the love that you take for granted?
is this the life that you take?
the world you want but you can't
you can't have it
is this the life that you want?
is this the world that you want?
is this the love that you take for granted?
is this the life that you take?
the world you want but you can't
you can't have it

wrap the propaganda
in any flag you wanna
keep their eyes shut
scared of everything
wrap the propaganda
in any flag you wanna
keep their eyes shut
scared of everything

is this the life that you want?
is this the world that you want?
is this the love that you take for granted?
is this the life that you take?
the world you want but you can't
you can't have it
is this the life that you want?

is this the world that you want?
is this the love that you take for granted?
is this the life that you take?
the world you want but you can't