

Jacob Banks, Just When I Thought

We're trading silence
Do you believe in faith or science?
I don't mind the sirens
'Cause at least it gives brings me guidance

I still believe in us
I still wanna call it love
But I guess this is what we've become
And you want put down your smoking gun

Just when I thought you were ready for me
Kingdoms of the heavens falling
Just when I thought you were ready for me
Thunder and rain is pouring

Just when I thought you were ready for me
Kingdoms of the heavens falling
Just when I thought you were ready for me
Thunder and rain is pouring

Don't tell me where we goin,' ooh
Doing ninety in the moment
And I'm holding my condolences
Till we swallowed in the ocean

I still believe in us
I still wanna call it love
But I guess this is what we've become
And you want put down your smoking gun

Just when I thought you were ready for me
Kingdoms of the heavens falling
Just when I thought you were ready for me
Thunder and rain is pouring

Just when I thought you were ready for me
Kingdoms of the heavens falling
Just when I thought you were ready for me
Thunder and rain is pouring

Just when I thought you were ready
Just when I thought you were ready
Just when I thought you were ready
Just when I thought you were ready
Just when I thought you were ready for me
For me
Ready for, for me
For me

Just when I thought you were ready
Just when I thought you were ready
Just when I thought you were ready
Just when I thought you were ready
Just when I thought you were ready for me
For me

Ready for, for me
For me
Ready for, for me
For me
Ready for, for me
For me