

Jag Panzer, Achilles

By the gods of war he was made never challenged by his prey a demon, a warrior, a god the keeper of his cause

The strongest of the strong no matter the right or wrong as far as the eye can see he will never concede

Born into war is all that he's known the seeds of terror are what he has sown a maiden has never seen into his heart and for this passion his soul will depart

The blade of Achilles is blessed by the gods a slave to no man he fights for a cause the strength of Achilles will render you cold the might of Achilles shall never be sold

For the shores of Troy they set sail when all before him failed to avenge his cousin's life a victim of the knife

Ten thousand fall that day leaving as they feign to sail away they take it, a gift behind the gates soon will seal their fate

Achilles the brave that no man can kill the arrow of fate across his heel will be the fall of Achilles this day the glory of Troy now fades away