

Jaguar Wright, The What If's

See, I got all the right questions; you got all the wrong answers.
And I got all of the sadness and you end up with all the laughter.
I think of the rules and I treat you right
but you get the last laugh every time.
Now tell me baby do that sound right?
Cant blame it on love cause common sense, it plays its part.
Cant blame it on you cause on you, cause you dont rule my heart.
Cant blame it on her, she cant be that smart
Cause messing with you, she gon get a broken heart.
So what if? What if? What if?
See every time I try to leave, you think of new reasons of why I should stay.
Every time I say, no, I cant believe you still get mad cause I wont give you your way.
And it dont hurt no more, when I see you with that other bitch.
Lately you cry and I dont know why
And I cant understand this shit!
Cant blame it on love cause common sense, it plays its part.
Cant blame it on you cause on you, cause you dont rule my heart.
Cant blame it on her, she cant be that smart
Cause messing with you, she gon get a broken heart.
What if? What if? What if?
What if things could change?
And what if you werent estranged;
Telling me no more,
Cause what I know of you is you walking out the front door.
What if things were different?
What if you paid your share of the rent?
What if you was the nigger that I fell in love with?
What if? What if? What if?
[Repeat 1x]
Waiting on the day that I can look at you and know what I see.
Waiting on the day when I can figure out why you fucks with me.
Im waiting on the damn day when I can force myself to leave.
And Im waiting on the day that I dont have to ask, why?
[Instrumental/Scat Break]
What if things could change?
And what if you werent estranged;
Telling me no more,
Cause what I know of you is you walking out the front door.
What if things were different?
What if you paid your share of the rent?
What if you was the nigger that I fell in love with?
What if? What if? What if?
[to fade]
