Jake Owen, Something About A Woman

She pulled her hair back to sun her shoulders Took the oil and rubbed it all over her soft skin Oh I'm a lucky man She wasn't wantin' any suntan lines so she Reached back and she untied that little string And then she smiled at me

And blew a kiss right off her fingertips I don't know what it is

But there's something about a woman Yeah some kind sweet little something That I may never understand Yeah some kind of gift they're given That makes this life worth livin' And it makes a man a man Oh there's nothing like that Somethin' about a woman

(Intro chords)

I sat there for a while and wondered And she took a nap there under that summer sky And then I realized

There are things in life that are meant to be Maybe left a mystery

Yeah like that something about a woman Yeah some kind sweet little something That I may never understand Yeah some kind of gift they're given That makes this life worth livin' And it makes a man a man Oh there's nothing like that Somethin' about a woman

(steel solo)

Yeah some kind of gift they're given That makes this life worth livin' And it makes a man a man Oh I'm nothing without that Somethin' about a woman Oh about a woman
