

James Arthur, ADHD

It's in the way that you laugh
It's in the way that you cry
I never seen a pair of eyes light up the sky

It's in the way that you smile
It's always perfectly timed
Your very essence redefines how I look at life

You threw me on party on Saturday but you know I don't know how to celebrate Dancin to isn't she lovely
Where did you learn how to love me
Coz I've got a

Black heart that I wear on my sleeve
Old flames still messaging me
Between that and the ADHD
You should run a mile
held back by the weight of my past
I'm a walking red flag
Why won't you leave
You said shut your mouth and kiss me

It's in that that you're unfazed
By all the bullshit that they say
And you correct them when they lie my little alibi

Show me where the light is and ill deny it coz I'm afraid to live I'm not scared of dying
Abandonment issues get ugly
Does that make it harder to love me

Black heart that I wear on my sleeve
Old flames still still messaging me
Between that and the ADHD
You should run a mile
held back by the weight of my past
I'm a walking red flag
Why won't you leave
You said shut your mouth and kiss me