

James Chadwick, Don't Go

There goes my hero on the 21st
If only I could see you now to quench my dying thirst.

But I watch and I wait so many miles from your grave.

Please don't leave me
Stay just to please me
I'm telling you please don't go
I don't want to be alone.

Young tears mean nothing
Young eyes can't understand
The longing for acceptance
The loss of your piano hands.

Still I watch and I wait
We've still got the world to save.

Please don't leave me
Stay just to please me
I'm telling you please don't go
I don't want to be alone
