

James Greenspun, Your Disguise

Alone in your mind, waiting for the sun to shine
Alone in your mind, waiting for the sign that its time
To break free from the words that hold you down
To escape from the feeling you are lost and can't be found
Don't hide your face, you cannot erase
The pain that stays in your eyes
Lay down your guard, show them who you are
Behind your disguise
You run far from home, think you'll make it on your own
You run fast and slow, but never seem to know where you'll go
To break free from the words that hold you down
To escape from the feeling you are lost and can't be found
Lost and can't be found
Don't hide your face, you cannot erase
The pain that stays in your eyes
Lay down your guard, show them who you are
Behind your disguise, your disguise
Don't hide your face, you cannot erase
The pain that stays in your eyes
Lay down your guard, show them who you are
Behind your disguise, behind your disguise, your disguise