

James Ingram, The Wings Of My Heart

I remember the day
you went out of your way Just to sing me I do

I still feel butterflies when I look in your eyes that old magic in you

Is still there, still the same like the sun and the rain nothing's change our love remains

you're my anchor and
my sail in the wind
I need you here forever

so hang on to the wings of my heart we can fly together
love will take us beyond the clouds if you hold on to the wings of my heart

when I wake up you're there tender words in my ear you whispered softly to me after all of these years the smiles and some tears we're still holding on so strong

so deep is the line
one of a kind
with a touch of divine soaring through time
