James, Out To Get You

I'm so alone tonight My bed feels larger than when I was small Lost in memories, lost in all the sheets and all old pillows So alone tonight, miss you more than I will let you know Miss the outline of your back, miss you breathing down my neck All out to get you, once again, they're all out to get you, once again Insecure, what ya gonna do Feel so small, they could step on you Called you up, answer machine, when the human touch Is what I need, what I need is you, I need you Looked in the mirror, I don't know who I am any more The face is familiar, but the eyes, the eyes give it all away They're all out to get you, once again, they're all out to get you Here they come again Insecure, what ya gonna do Feel so small, they could step on you Called you up, answer machine, when the human touch Is what I need, what I need is you Let me breathe, if you'd let me breathe They're all out to get you, once again, they're all out to get you