

Jaromir Nohavica, A Greenland Tune

Faraway in the north there lives in Greenland
An Eskimo girl with an Eskimo man
That it is freezing there is something unknown
They breakfast on ice cream and on snow cones
They sleep a lot there everything is just right
Six months of the year makes up a polar night
In spring they wake up and run out the doorway
Six months a year makes up a polar day
When the fresh snow falls more than ankle-deep there they play cops and robbers along with the bears
Its hard for the Eskimos to win the fight
In the snow the bears are never in sight
On Wednesday every week just when it s two
The head bear comes and he knocks on the igloo
Good afternoon Could I drop around shortly
Ive brought you a bit of fish for your tea
The kettle on the stove heats a bubbling tea
Outside the dogs are stopping thieves from entry
The laughing is shaking throughout the igloo
The bears showing many neat tricks to do
So their life in the north could not be better
They can make fun out of a thermometer
That it is freezing there is something unknown
for theyre all together and are at home
