

Jaromir Nohavica, The Camisole

Take off your camisole my precious love
The light of morning is a long way off
The light is far away the hearts closer
Its lovely when people love each other
You are now here with me but once you ran
Noone has carressed you the way I can
Ice can conceal itself when waters stir
This is the last time now we re together
Take off your camisole porcelain fine
Youre the most beautiful who could be mine
The red sky up above as red as blood
Youll be my first one and I your first love.
