Jars Of Clay, Sunny Days

Sunny days keepin' the clouds away I think we're coming to a clearing and a brighter day So far away. Still I think they will say The wait will make the heart grow stronger or fonder i cant quite remember anyway

Chorus:

So if you're waitin' for love Well it's a promise I'll keep If you don't mind believing that it changes everything Then time will never matter

Winter, Spring...is what love can truly bring lce turns to water, water flows to everything You can lose your mind, maybe then your heart you'll find I hope you wont give up what's movin' you inside

Chorus

If the car wont start when you turn the key When the music comes on, all your cold, cold heart can do is skip a beat

It's a promise i'll keep When you're waitin' for love If you don't mind believing that it changes everything Then time will never matter
