Jason Aldean, Back In This Cigarette

It's Two A.M. in my new home this motel room An ash tray full of lucky strikes A half spent case of warm Bud Lite Counting regrets...fighting back tears Retracin' steps...gettin' nowhere [Chorus:] Callin' your name it's a waste of my breath There's no reachin' you across this cold and empty bed Stirrin' up ashes, tryin' to find passion Where there's no love left It's like trying to put smoke back in this cigarette Come sunrise guess I'll check out and ditch this town Put a few more miles between us And keep drivin' till I finally mend this broken trust Hangin' my hopes on highway signs If I lie here I'll lose my mind [Repeat Chorus] I may never know your reasons why But someday I'm gonna see the good in your goodbye [Repeat Chorus]
