

Jason Mraz, The Darkest Space

well i'm not just a song anymore i might be the whole damn score i might be reeling in your head while you're sleeping in your bed at night i'm not just alone anymore well i finally found what i was looking for i might be sitting in the passenger side but not along for the ride cause i've got control of a homegrown situation i lay back and then i turn the alarm off and turn out the light there's gonna be some quality sleeping cause quality's keeping the quality up at night i am fixed to lay alone with my arms out learning to fly

through the darkest space well i try to catch up to the catchphrased human race i say let the games begin underways said in conditions that we play in oh, maybe these things are better this way oh may the games begin today oh well, oh well

cause i'm just above in the ailing aggravation of love and i raise to optimistical fortune toasting it twice and i'm sitting high on an anytime, anyday night and i laugh to think of crying my eyes out well isn't it nice

through the darkest space
well i try to catch up to the
catchphrased human race
i say let the games begin underway say in conditions that we play in oh maybe these things, maybe these things may the games begin in open space
oh lord well i finally catch up to the
catchphrased human race
i say, honey, let the games begin underway, underway said in conditions that we play oh maybe these things maybe these things maybe these, maybe these things should begin today boy, oh lord this whole damn world is your toy, lord don't you want some, love love love, love don't you want some, some some always stay the same but don't you want your love to never be the same as the last day don't you want