

Jean Michel Jarre, Children Of Space

Lifeforms on other planets will be even more varied than they are on this planet.
They will depend to a large extent on the gravitational field on a planet which has a much higher gravity.
The variations we will find in space are almost infinite...