

Jean Shepard, Another (Just Like Me)

You didn't love me long until the thrill was gone
Then another made me your old used to be
How long can her love last when a new wears oh so fast
There'll always be another then another and another just like me
Just like me she'll understand the sorrow
Of loving you today and losing you tomorrow
I warned her but she called it jealousy
So let her be another then another and another just like me
[ steel ]
Now you go anywhere for a brand new love affair
Somebody new who thrills you instantly
When the thrill has ceased to chill and from our past I know it will
There'll always be another then another and another just like me
Just like me she'll understand...
