

Jean Shepard, It's The Wine That's Talkin'

I want so much to believe the things you're sayin' but I know if I did I'd be a fool
That bottle on the table is the reason it's the wine that's talkin' it isn't really you
You never tell me that you care when you're not drinking
You always wait until you've had a few
That's the time that you give out with all the sweet talk
It's the wine that's talkin' it isn't really you
When you pour out your heart without the pink clean glasses
That's the day I know your love is really true
But when you're like you are now your words mean nothing to me
It's the wine that's talkin' it isn't really you
It's the wine that's talkin' it isn't really you
