

Jeff Edwards, Twist Of Fate

When you think that you know.
Everything that's gonna happen.
The sea pulls out.
Then comes crashing back to shore.

You dig a hole so deep.
That you could never climb out.
Then the last one you think.
Puts a ladder down for you.
You can only put it down.
To a twist of fate.

You can walk down your road.
And everything seems so familiar.
Although buildings are the same.
There's different people every day.

There's a face that you know.
The one you think who's trying to kill.
Then they walk up to you.
And kiss you gently on the head.
You can only put it down.
To a twist of fate.

Ooh. Ooh.

Oh you think you know.
You think you know.
Oh don't you hate.
That twist of fate.

Oh you think you know.
You think you know.
Oh don't you hate.
That twist of fate.
That twist of fate.
That twist of fate.
