Jen Foster, The Underdogs

Words by Jen Foster & Dry Kathy Scott Music by Jen Foster

Second grade, Billy Simms Playing out by the jungle gym All the boys laughed at him For some sort of speech impediment And they knocked him down And I pushed them off And they kicked our asses 'Cause we were the underdogs Seventh grade, Cindy Sloan Eating in the lunchroom all alone They called her strange, but I could see She was just different like me So I asked her over

And she blew me off

It made perfect sense to me 'Cause we were the underdogs

When everyone's above you, there's nowhere you can go When nobody calls you, 'cause it's all in who you know

When the self-righteous say they're for you, telling you to win this fight

Nobody understands you, no they don't know what it's like

Freshman year, Judson Tate

He didn't have a Homecoming date

He asked me out, we never kissed

We told each other our big secret

He said he fell for James

And James broke his heart

And I understood him

'Cause we were the underdogs

When everyone's above you, there's nowhere you can go When nobody calls you, 'cause it's all in who you know

When the self-righteous say they're for you, telling you to win this fight

Senior year, Billy Simms
