

Jennifer Pena, You Say

You say that you found some one You say she could be the one How she can touch your heart And you say that she knows what to do you say, that she cares for you now I realize what I missed out in you cause I took you for granted , for granted ,for granted you gave me your heart and still I let you go

cause I took you for granted , for granted ,for granted baby I realize I had it all
cause I took you for granted , for granted ,for granted I should've known before I let you go
cause I took you for granted , for granted ,for granted now I'm here alone and lost without you so lost so lost with out you baby you say that she treats you right you say that she stands by your side never tries to harm you she's always thinking of you

And you say that she's faithful you say, that you are thankful she always says I Love You, does everything to have you

I should've Known it from the start I should've kept you inside of my heart This the reason, we're apart now I know you won't come back cause I took you for granted , for granted ,for granted

you gave me your heart and still I let you go
cause I took you for granted , for granted ,for granted
baby I realize I had it all
cause I took you for granted , for granted ,for granted
I should've known before I let you go
cause I took you for granted , for granted ,for granted
now I'm here alone and lost without you

cause I took you for granted , for granted ,for granted you gave me your heart and I let you go

I took you for granted , for granted ,for granted how could I let you how could I let you go.....
