

Jennifer Warnes, I Can't Hide

saw your face in a dream again and there's no word for what I was feeling so deep and wide I can't hide it any longer who let this phantom in who will tame this nameless feeling I'd like to hide but I can no longer

you're the ghost who keeps on calling I bar the door, you breeze right through all my old fences are falling I don't know what's true but I'm glad to see you and to feel you near again so strong, so warm and tormenting ain't nothin' died baby it just grows stronger

you're the ghost who keeps on calling
I bar the door, you breeze right through
all my old fences are falling *as I reach for you *what do I hold on to

*saw your face in a dream again
hello, hello my lost companion come on inside
I will hide no longer no, no, I can hide no longer no, I won't hide no longer