

Jennifer Warnes, Lights Of Lousianne

one summer night he'll light a lantern he'll catch a tiny firefly in a jar set her dancing on the mantle like a piece of star

see how the boy lays low he wants the shiver in her wing see him hiding in the willow playing with lightning

you don't know me
I don't know you
and the summer's come again my oh my, the sparks are flyin'
all over Lousianne

there's lots of fishes in the sea I swear I'm gonna catch one in my hand make him dance for me in the fryin' pan

you don't know me
I don't know you
and the summer's come again my oh my, the fish are flyin'
all over Lousianne

in your eyes there's a light it comes and it goes without a sound if I hold on tight it's gonna burn me to the ground

you don't know me
I don't know you
and the summer's come again
my oh my, the sparks are flyin'
all over Lousianne
our lives go by like sparks are flyin'
all over Lousianne
