

Jerry Jeff Walker, 'Til I Gain Control Again

Rodney Crowell

Just like the sun over a mountain top
You know I'll always come again
Cause you know I love to spend the morning time
Like sunlight kissing on your skin

I've never gone so wrong as tellin' lies to you
'Cause I know I'm only what I've been
There ain't a single thing I would hide from you
Those dark eyes know me better than I ever can

Out on this road that lies before me now
There are some turns where I will spin
I only hope your love will find me there
Until I gain me some control again

Well I guess like a lighthouse you must stand alone
Landmark this sailor's journeys end
No matter what sea I'm off sailin' on
Your light will always guide me home again

Out on this road that lies before me now
There are some turns where I will spin
I only hope your love can find me there
Hold me 'til I can gain control again
