Jill Phillips, Grace And Peace

Early that night just before he was taken He broke of the bread So we could taste that He has died, He is risen He is coming again And it's much more Than we could ask for To be made pure By the One in whose Name we come