Jillian Wheeler, Misery

In September will you remember me? When my loving misery comes back to me Will you be there for me? Velvet lips eyes that melt the sun Under his spell my mind has come undone I feel like I'm on the run

Torn between my heart and my fantasy My misery is taking control of me He has taken my loneliness My fear my love my mind my misery He will come back to me

Tell me who did this thing to you Who makes you do the things you do? Who made you so cold so young We used to laugh until the tears came down An now we barely even talk We just spinnin round and round

Do you remember the day that you said you loved me? Under the moonlight You said you would set me free Free from my misery

Now it's time come on we gotta go Take my hand he's never going to let me go He says that he loves me so