

Jimmys Chicken Shack, Just Enough

sometimes you're falling for so long you forget which way is down and sometimes you move so fast and strong that your feet don't touch the ground and i gotta keep my faith and i need a little luck but when it comes to love well i don't have you and i guess you think i don't have much but i have just enough to make it yah i got just enough to make it

sometimes you're falling for so long you forget which way is down and you could drink me down like water tumbling space but you choose to break my neck in two and hold in place wonder when my heart will beat again wander back to where i started i'm at home with friends being alone can make you see we all got motives just to breathe again from now on i'm not falling in i think i'll rise instead the words you said my heart in head well i don't think about it you may not know where you go but i don't think about it could this be the end of me

what will we find when we cross that line well i don't think about how how you could drink me down like water tumbling space but i don't think about how you could break my neck in two and hold me in place

sometimes you're falling for so long you forget which way is down and sometimes you play that game so long you see it all come back around yah in the end it all comes back around
