Joe Cocker, I Can Hear The River

It's so cold on this balancing beam I lose my breath each time I scream All the time that it takes on this cliff I simply wish that you were here I must be in love with you Be in love with you Be in love with you I must be in love with you I think you're the reason I can see the water I don't feel so lonely That I hear the river On a night like tonight in the park I sit alone out in the dark On the days I'm waiting for you It seems that Water must break through I must be in love with you Yes be in love with you I can hear the river I can see the water I must be in love with you When I'm near the river I see the bridges I can feel the morning I can almost touch you When I'm near the river Be in love with you I can hear the river Can see the water I don't feel so lonely When I'm near the river I hear the river tide Now that I feel the morning I don't feel so lonely When I'm near the river Hear the tide
