

Joe Wilson, A Different Life

It's that time again
When the movie ends and the credits begin I refuse to leave cause I don't want this to end I'm paralyzed
I'm the last to give up in every fight but I've been through this so I know I'll be alright So I close my eyes and I dream of living a different life like the one I led when I felt so alive So I pass the time with beer and sleep and these friends of mine and I realize I'm unhappy with my life I'll wonder why
I should ever sacrifice anything again in my life
When people lie and never willing to compromise anything to make things feel alright
