

Joey Cape, Errands

maybe we'll move to new york city and then we'll celebrate "good bye"; we'll find a place that we can start a fight and feel good to be alive and so we'll drive across the country on this endless holiday you take the short cut and ill watch life pass i cant remember who drove last errands, errands
why dont you think theyd understand?
errands, errands
why dont you think before that next drink?
its gonna be your last mistake, oh yeah... and its going to devastate all them were on our way to run more errands travelers without a plan and ive been awake for way too long i cant remember who i am
errands, errands
why dont you think theyd understand?
errands, errands
why dont you think before that next week?
its gonna be your last mistake, oh yeah...
and you know it will devastate all them