

Joey Eppard, Stranded In A Treetop

<!--Sleep walking through the daily dark
Got a couple of arrows left to miss my mark
Thank God God made you who you are
'Cause if He didn't, any minute I'd be singing I'm over par
Hey, am I right so far?

I'll be stranded in a treetop
I can't get down
Stuck up in the worst of ways
'Cause my heart stays on the ground
Stranded in a treetop
I can't get down
Stuck up in the worst of ways
'Cause my heart stays on the ground

Some men got fairness in their soul
One might scramble up a tree
A few might dig a hole
Thank God God made me who I am
'Cause if he weren't keepin' current
Then how could I understand who's a better man?

I'll be stranded in a treetop
I can't get down
Stuck up in the worst of ways
'Cause my heart stays on the ground
Stranded in a treetop
I can't get down
Stuck up in the worst of ways
'Cause my heart stays on the ground

Please come back home
I am alone here
Disappear
No last goodbye
Listen my belly aches
Do whatever it takes to get me down
Oh, yeah

Stranded in a treetop
I can't get down
Stuck up in the worst of ways
'Cause my heart stays on the ground
Stranded in a treetop
I can't get down
Stuck up in the worst of ways
'Cause my heart stays on the ground

Stranded in a treetop
I can't get down
Stuck up in the worst of ways
Stuck up in the worst of ways
Stuck up in the worst of ways
'Cause my heart stays on the ground

On the ground x 3

High above the people on the ground
Looking up at another looking down
Look at what I found
I need a way to get down

The people on the ground
Looking up at another looking down

Look at what I found
Think I got a way to get down

The people on the ground
Looking up at another looking down
Look at what I found
I need to find a way to get down

The people on the ground
Looking up at another looking down
Look at what I found
I need to find a way to get down
