

Joey Tempest, Always On The Run

Its the way we live and its killing me and the silence here is deafening everything is just a lie until you tell the truth theres got to be another day we were always on the run I was always leaving you, you leaving me now you never cross my mind sometimes
I just know the rain wont change a thing Im already lost to sugar and caffeine its these days in between I never understand
