

Joey Tempest, Hate Loving Me

The stores are all closed, I've got the streets to myself.
Here it's so peaceful, but all is not well.
It's almost light, I wish it would rain.
It's something to blame...
Something in our love has changed.
We're still together but it's not the same.
We're in a place that I never thought we'd be.
In your eyes I see something that I never thought I'd see.
I made you hate loving me.
I know I don't have to admit this to you.
But I realize what I put you through.
You made it so easy...
What makes it so hard, is that you don't even know
What makes it so hard, is that you won't let it show
What makes it so hard, is that...
Something in our love has changed.
We're still together but it's not the same.
We're in a place that I never thought we'd be.
In your eyes I see something that I never thought I'd see.
I made you hate loving me.
