Johan Becker, Something About You

I might give up I might give in 'cause I know you're about to win I look at you I sense it still That my turn is up again

I'm drowning in the pouring rain But since I met you things have changed

There's something about you I can't live without you You just linger on min All the time

I fill my arms
With thoughts of you
You bring out the best in me
If I should fall What would you do
Would you take care of me

I'm drowning in the pouring rain But since I met you things have changed

There's something'.

Would you take care of me If I asked you to I know you're the one Want to run to you There's something about you'.
